DR. FARR BACK FROM HICKORY FLAT

Reports 42 Conversions and Many Glorious Results.

Dr. W. E. Farr, pastor of the First Baptist church in Grenada, is just back from Hickory Flat where he conducted a ten day's revival meeting. He reports that he was delighted with the result of the meeting, and that twice during its progress there was some old time shouting by some of the good mothers whose sons made a profession of religion and united with the church. Mr. Farr states that there were 42 conversions and that a fine spirit pervaded the community. He is greatly pleased that a total of $7,000. was raised and subscribed together for a church building and other church purposes.

FAIRS AND STATE FARM COMMISSION

Meeting in Grenada Tuesday of County Agents of this District Presided over by L. A. Olson—The Memphis Fair and North Mississippi Fair Plans to Function with Agricultural Commission.

The first of a series of three meetings with county agents, under the supervision of L. A. Olson, district extension agent, met in the directors room of the Grenada Bank Tuesday to discuss fairs and exhibits, and means of cooperating with the newly organized state agriculture commission, a state marketing service set up by the state at the last meeting of legislature.

Those present at this meeting were: J. W. Willis, state agent in charge of county agent work, L. A. Olson, district agent, Bura Hilbun, director of state marketing service, C. L. Bell, president state farm bureau, Frank D. Fuller, secretary Tri-State Fair, S. H. Anderson, Secretary National Dairy Show, R. L. White, field agent, state farm bureau, S. M. Cain, secretary North Mississippi Fair, H. C. Hampton, dairy specialist, H. S. Johnson, district club agent, A. C. Lyton, L. C. General Passenger Agent, F. L. Teuton, I. C. agricultural agent and following county agents, G. R. Fulton, Grenada, S. P. Dent, Calhoun, J. C. Sides, Yalobusha Co., C. A. Wallace, Panola, E. E. Johnson, Carroll, M. S. Shaw, Montgomery and J. W. Whitaker, Jr., Tallahatchie.

Mr. Cain, secretary of the North Mississippi Fair discussed the premium list. It was decided that the best community agricultural exhibits from Yalobusha, Calhoun and Montgomery counties would be brought to the fair at Grenada and would compete with the best community exhibit from Grenada county.

Offers were presented by both Mr. Cain of Grenada and Mr. Fuller of the Tri-State Fair, of prizes to 4-H Club Boys and Girls who will sell the largest number of tickets to the two fairs. These prizes to consist of free season passes, cash prizes, gold watches and fountain pens. Information on this can be obtained from county agents.

Mr. Linton, general passenger agent of the I. C. Railroad presented plans of operating special trains to the Tri-State Fair on Mississippi Day. Tentative plans are to run special trains 1. C. No. 1, originating at Bruce, No. 2, Winona, No. 3, Kosciusko, Durant and Vaiden, No. 4, Grenada, Tillatoba and Oakland, No. 5, Pope, Batesville, Sardis and Como, No. 6, Coffeeville, Water Valley, Oxford and Abbeville. Two special trains will probably be operated to the North Mississippi Fair, Wednesday, October 12, which is on 4-H Club Day. These trains will originate at Holly Springs and Durant respectively, and will stop at the North Mississippi Fair at Grenada.

Mr. Anderson, secretary of National Dairy Show, spoke of the dairy show which will be held at Tri-State Fair in Memphis on Oct. 13-20, 1928. He spoke very interestingly of the rapid and permanent development of the dairy industry in the south and especially in this immediate territory and of the part the dairy show plays in creating and stimulating interest in better dairy stock and milk production. Last year more than 800 individual exhibits of dairy cows were shown at Memphis, representing one hundred sixty different herds and coming from nineteen different states.

The 4-H Calf Club Show at the dairy show is expected to be better than last year. Many entries have already been made for the various contests in this department. Mississippi will be represented by an excellent group of dairy club calves, dairy judging team, dairy demonstration teams and entries in the showmen's contest.

The entire group in conference was entertained at luncheon by the Grenada Rotary Club.

Mr. Andrew Carothers, president of the club, turned the Rotary program over to L. A. Olson who called for short talks by J. W. Willis, A. & M. College, Frank Fuller, Memphis, S. H. Anderson, Memphis, A. C. Linton, New Orleans, Bura Hilbun and C. L. Bell, Jackson, Miss., and M. S. Shaw,

"Onlooker" Gives A Look-In On Matters At Jackson

The Prospective Special Legislative Session and its Likely Outcome—Thinks People Back at Home Should Talk Over Revenue and Road Matters with Their Legislators—Gov. Bilbo Opposed to Increases in Ad Valorem Tax and Lower House Opposed to Sales Tax—Luxury Tax May Be a Go—Governor Still has His Kite to Book Plant—Opinion of Those Who Visit Jackson is that Hubert Stephens Will Be an Easy Winner in Race for Senator.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 8, 1928. Editor Sentinel: Well here comes your "Onlooker" again. You got me started and I reckon if you stop me, you'll have it to do.

I have been out of Jackson for some days, nevertheless I have not been so far away as to get out of touch with that is going on in the state and with what is being said around the Capitol buildings and in the hotels.

It appears that everybody who visits Jackson regardless of what, thinks he must talk and he proceeds to tell "how it is in my part of the state". Usually the first thing is the weather and the crop outlook—these would seem to be dry worn out subjects because they have been talked of and about for the years. Lovers of agriculture have traversed the state and when "John" was trying to get up his courage to tell "Mary" what was in his heart, have wandered off to the weather, the flowers and the birds and other things. The weather and the crops so vitally concern the welfare and the happiness of man is the main reason why they stay with us and just refuse to get old.

To brief from what is being said about the crops, I would say that Mississippi has every prospect now of a good crop of corn and cotton; if course the boll weevil and the wrong sort of weather may change all this within the next 30 days.

The prospective special legislative session is coming in for more discussion than perhaps any special legislative meet ever before in Mississippi's history. Just when Gov. Bilbo will call it, is a matter known only to him and perhaps he has not yet determined on the date himself. The Governor may be waiting to try to get things "ripe", but my guess is that if the Governor is hugging the delusion that there will be any time with the present membership of the legislature when it will be "ripe" for his proposed book plant, he is doomed to disappointment. The stars in their courses, the special legislative committees, the State Teachers' Association and the leading educators of the state—from all these one can read that the determination of the membership of the lower house is sealed tighter and tighter, and that there will be no back down, letting up or going around by that body.

It is difficult even for many of the Governor's closest political friends to understand why he puts the book plant above everything else that he advocated in his campaign and why it is that he refuses to recognize a stubborn fact in the determination of the membership of the lower house to have no printing of school books by the state.

One of the most valiant fighters against the book plant is Hon. W. N. Taylor. He has hit the proposition fore and aft, and has offered such irresistible arguments that some find themselves under the necessity of crying "partisanship".

The biggest thing that the special session will have to deal with is that of raising revenue to meet the appropriations made at the session in the early part of the year. The lawmaking body finds itself in the fix of the man who went to the city with fifty dollars in his purse and when leaving day came he found that he had spent $125. He had no money in the bank at home and there was no one else he could borrow from—the legislature spent all the state had in its pocket and made debts for more, and by the way, Gov. Bilbo approved it all and still wanted further appropriations.

The lower house is set against a general sales tax and the Governor is for one, it is claimed; the lower house seems to think that the quickest and sanest way to raise the needed revenue is by increasing the ad valorem tax and the Governor is against that, thus it is that there is an immovable force against an immovable object—where, if at all, the break will occur.

Winona. After lunch the discussion was led by Mr. Hilbun of the state agricultural service department, and the plans, policies and methods of cooperating with the extension workers in grading and standardizing of products and locating markets for the farmers produce were discussed and formulated.

Plans were developed to conduct a state-wide winter cover crop campaign during the last week of August and the first of September in an effort to get a good acreage of winter growing crops for soil building and grazing. C. L. Nell of the state farm bureau states that large quantities of seeds will be on hand for distribution at very reasonable prices.

This meeting was the first of a series. A similar meeting being held in Holly Springs on Wednesday and Tupelo Thursday.

cur, nobody can foresee. If there is not some getting together, if there is not some concessions made upon the part of the Governor and, shall I say the lower house, too, then the special session will be a futile one.

There can hardly be any debate about the statement that the merchants of the state are unitedly against a general sales tax. There are many who look with favor on placing a sales tax on unnecessary such as soft drinks, cigars and cigarettes and certain toilet articles.

One of the latest pieces of political gossip that one hears now from the "inner circles" is that if Webber Wilson succeeds by chance defeat Senator Stephens, Gov. Bilbo will seek to use Wilson's triumph as an endorsement of his administration and incidentally the book plant, and will try to hammer that idea into the heads of legislators who have acted upon their own judgment rather than his. I guess that would be playing the political game according to present day rules, but the more's the pity.

If I might whisper something to the Governor just here, I would tell him that if the success of his administration depends upon the defeat of Hubert Stephens, then he is doomed. Webber Wilson seems to have played mighty poor judgment in making his campaign. There has been nothing constructive or educative in his speeches. I reckon he did as well as any one else could without an issue. He trotted out that old raw bone, sore shouldered, hipped old nag, "prejudice", but the old gal "has been rid" too much and she has just failed to carry the young man anywhere.

Wilson is a fine looking young fellow and like many others has seemed to place much store by his looks and his artistic carriage on the platform. I heard a sturdy old farmer say the other day who had heard both senatorial candidates speak, that "Wilson was feeding his hearers on foam candy while Hubert Stephens was giving good old substantial corn bread". And this about the way many are looking at the contest and comparing the two men.

As heretofore remarked in one of my letters, Gov. Bilbo is going slow on the pardon business, and his action in this regard is being universally commended. It is well known that the Governor is more than hard to persuade to extend clemency to liquor law violators. The Governor seems to believe that selling liquor and making it like a very great deal of squaring with just ordinary decency.

The Crop Outlook and What Crop Promises

Cotton Plant Growing and Looks Fine from the Highways—Boll Weevil and Weather Only Things that Can Cut Crop off Now—Old Corn is Made but Young Corn's Fate Still Hangs in the Balance—Farmers and Merchants Feel Reassured about Fall Business—First Open Cotton Bolls.

The Sentinel received Monday, August 6, its first open cotton boll of the season. It was fully developed and showed up as if it were a boll just opened in the beautiful, bracing days of October. It came from the farm of Mr. S. W. Blair, twelve miles south of Grenada, and from the crop of Will Morehead, colored. The raiser expects to have 4 bales of cotton ready for the market during the month of August, the first of which he expects to have ginned on or by August 25. Mr. Blair is one of the substantial citizens of this section and is a successful farmer.

Will Morehead is a trustworthy colored citizen and strives every year to make a good crop. On Tuesday, August 7, Mr. S. L. Nail of Elliott came forward with the second open boll of the season. Mr. Nail is, too, one of those farmers that believes in giving his farm attention and is also one of the dependable citizens of the county.

"What about the crop outlook?" is an oft repeated question just about now. But it is one highly important to one and all in this section.

To the one who rides along the highways and looks across the fields, the cotton crop looks reassuring. The stalks show a good color and seem to be growing. The luxuriant look of the plant is calculated to deceive, nevertheless it (Continued on page 8)

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS HAD BUSY WEEK

Going Over Assessments In Effort to Meet Demands of Tax Commission.

The board of supervisors of Grenada County has had a busy week going over assessments and trying to equalize assessed values keeping in mind, no doubt, all the while the demand made by the State Tax Commission for an increase of 10 per cent in the total assessment for the county. It may be proper to say here that when the chairman and one other member of the Tax Commission were here some weeks ago, those officials stated that it would require an increase of 10 per cent in all assessments in order to raise the revenue required to meet legislative appropriations, but if the board of supervisors of the county could make a showing that much property here which has been on the rolls for several years can be not assessed for the reason that it does not exist, then the Tax Commission would not arbitrarily insist on the 10 per cent increase. The supervisors have had a difficult task and are destined to come in for more or less condemnation regardless of what they do or of what they fail to do.

A NORTH MISSISSIPPI VOTER FOR STEPHENS

Was Present when Sen. Stephens Spoke at Hernando, and was Greatly Pleased with His Speech—Senator Barbee in Presenting the Senator Gave Him Big Credit for Flood Control Law.

The Grenada Sentinel:

The people of Hernando, DeSoto County, had the pleasure of listening to a speech from the Hon. Senator Hubert Stephens in the interest of his candidacy for reelection to a seat in the United States Senate from Mississippi, today. I heard him before an intelligent audience composed of interested men and women. He rendered an account of his stewardship for the past five years or more that he has represented us in that body. He told how he had had a part in originating the movement that has resulted in the United States government taking an active part in the building and maintaining the great highways that make travel easy all over this country. How he had had a part as a member of the committee on banking and currency in making and passing that great law known as the Federal Reserve Act, a law that has been declared by great minds to have resulted in more benefit to the people generally than any other that has been placed upon the statute books since the close of the Civil War. Coming down to the present he told how he had worked in season and out for the passage of what is known as the Flood Control Bill. He told of how he had been thanked by the people of the delta individually for his aid in their time of need and also how Chambers of Commerce in the delta had not only recognized this service but had been generous in their praise for his helping hand. "And yet," said the speaker, "I have found since the opening of the senatorial race through the voice of the young man who represents the sixth district in congress and who now aspires to a seat in the United States Senate, that I played the traitor to my own people in the passage of that great act, that I was a snake in the grass and other epithets too vile to repeat before this audience of men and women. In spite of what Will Whittington, Congressman from the delta district has said, in spite of the testimony of Alf Stone, a man whose word will be taken wherever he is known, in spite of the resolutions of chambers of commerce, this young man who never made a track in the delta in their hour of trial but remained in safety on the high hills while the flood waters were devastating that great country, homes and everything that came in the way, this young man has discovered that I was playing the traitor and a snake in the grass all the time. Could ignorance on the one hand or mendacity on the other go further?"

When the senator came to that part of his speech in which he took up the charges that his opponent had made as to his conviving with venal niggers in the sale of officers in Mississippi he grew eloquent in his denunciation. He showed that under the act supported by his opponent that not a soul could have been indicted or punished for the barter and sale of offices in Mississippi and proved it by Judge Holmes of the Federal Court. He showed by the record that his opponent had done less than any other Representative Mississippi has had since the Civil War and explained it by showing he was either the most indolent or the most ignorant man that ever sat in Congress from this state. He said in spite of the truth now known by his opponent he continued day after day to spread these scandalous falsehoods knowing them to be false and depending upon the ignorance of the voters being as dense as was that of his opponent.

Correspondent Writes Of Things As Seen At Capital

Briefs of what Party Leaders are thinking of the Presidential Contest—The States which He Thinks Smith Certain to Carry—The Volstead Act and How Many View It—Democrats Unable to Find Any Big Faults in Hoover, but Believe that Corn Belt Will Swat Him—Senators without Regard to Party Lines Would be Glad to See Senator Stephens Re-elected—Stephens Personally Popular—Flood Control Law Big Thing for South.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6, 1928. Grenada Sentinel: I have been circulating in and out of Washington City for many years and have been watching the politicians and the political soothsayers for a long, long while, and I honestly believe that I never saw them so much bewildered. They know not which way the cat is going to jump. This applies to both of the major parties. Al Smith Got Republicans Uneasy.

There is no mistaking the fact that the Republicans are sitting uneasy. They see how Al Smith has backed them off the stage in New York in four successful races for Governor. They recognize in the great war President left the White House the press told the story of moving his whiskey in a truck. These same Democrats are reminding their "dry" party colleagues that Woodrow Wilson vetoed the Volstead Act, and that when the great war President left the White House the press told the story of moving his whiskey in a truck. These same Democrats are reminding their Southern colleagues who are "dry" that among the last published statements from Jefferson Davis was one against prohibition. It is being recalled that Tilden and Cleveland, the only two Democrats, besides Wilson and Bryan who have written their names in burning letters on the life and the history of the country since the Civil War, were opposed to prohibition. These men all urged that prohibition was sumptuary legislation. Thus it will be seen that it is not a political crime to be opposed to prohibition. That great Democrat leader in the lower house of congress, Rogers Q. Mills, of Texas, thought prohibition out of tune with the underlying principles of this country and that its adoption would not cure the ills complained of and would be but a gate-opening to other evils that tied the citizens to the apron strings of the government. It is a matter of common knowledge that the great Lamar, the first man after the Civil War to extend the olive branch and who could see much further than the average statesman, was opposed to prohibition.

The prohibitionists are quick to answer all these things by saying that all that is in the past and that a new day and new conditions confront the people and they are bold to assert that if these men were on the stage of action today they would be prohibitionists. Of course that is speculation, nevertheless it is a hard nut for the anti-prohibitionists to crack.

The Difference Between Modification and Prohibition. It may be said that there are two classes who want the Volstead Act modified. One class is made up of those sincere believers in law enforcement and who are just honestly temperate. They would no more take a step or cast a ballot that would restore the saloon and reenthroned the liquor interests than they would to deny their fathers or to join in treason against the government. Those who are intimate with Al Smith say that he belongs with this class, and that he is in no wise a drinking man and that Herbert Hoover tips the wine glass just as frequently as Al does.

There is another class that are ready for the swirl trough of whiskey regardless of how many swine are drinking out of it. They want wine, beer and whiskey because it increases the devilry in them and because the stuff helps to stifle their better impulses which keep knocking at the door of their consciences.

The Young Men's Business League recently organized in Grenada, met for its second meeting Tuesday evening. After a delightful dinner served by the ladies of the Eastern Star, attention was turned to the business of the meeting.

The first president, Mr. Jay Gore, officiated. Mr. Gore expressed appreciation of the compliment paid him in naming him president, but stated that he felt his incapacity, and that certainly he knew little of parliamentary procedure. The secretary, O. L. Kimbrough, Jr., acted the part of an old stager, his duties being clerical—to record the proceedings and to account for any funds.

ponent while sitting in the halls of Congress. Senator Stephens was introduced by that eloquent lawyer John W. Barbee, of Hernando. Mr. Barbee was generous in his praise and told how contracts had already been let in DeSoto county for $300,000 worth of levee work as among the direct benefits derived from the efforts of Senator Stephens in the passage of the Flood Control Act. The audience was generous in applause, but not that kind that one hears in South Mississippi from Wilson's paid hirelings and hoodlums.

DEATH OF FORMER GRENADA CITIZEN

There are many in Grenada who remember Mrs. A. P. Burr most pleasantly who will regret to learn of her death which occurred at her home in Yazoo City, Sunday morning, August 5, at 1:30 o'clock. Mrs. Burr's husband was an attaché of The Sentinel for several years and they had an attractive daughter, now Mrs. Pauline Burr Quekmeier, whose home is also in Yazoo City. Mrs. Burr was a woman of many fine elements of character. To the bereft husband and sorrowing daughter, The Sentinel tenders sincere sympathy.

I. C. PASSENGER TRAINS IN WRECK

Sewer Pipe Wrecks Two Illinois Passenger Trains at Mound, Ill.—Nine Killed and 60 Seriously Injured—Four from Grenada on the Train and Among Them a Negro Woman Who Was Killed.

Cairo, Ill., Aug. 6: At 3:12 o'clock two fast moving Illinois Central passenger trains, one going north and the other south, were wrecked at Mounds, only a short distance from here, this morning. Train No. 3 struck a sewer pipe that had supposedly fallen from a freight train. The Chickasaw limited, going north, was warned by the track walker that the iron piping was on its track which enabled that train to slow up sufficiently to knock the piping from its track onto the other track without injury to itself. It stopped and dispatched a flagman to warn train No. 3, coming south, but it is stated that No. 3 was making such a high rate of speed that it could not stop. So when it struck the piping, it skidded off its track and hit the Chickasaw limited a broadside with the result that both trains were twisted and torn, eight persons killed besides forty or more seriously maimed, many crippled for life. How anybody escaped is one of the mysteries that Providence will keep locked until some future day. Why the crew of the Chickasaw limited did not remove the iron pipe from the track of the other train is somewhat puzzling.

There were four Grenadians in the wreck, Mr. Hubert Tatum, Mr. Pope, Mr. Burris, landscape gardener for the I. C. Railroad at this place, and Hezekiah Dunaway, wife of J. H. Dunaway, colored, residing at Riverdale, was among the ones killed.

Cairo, Ill., Aug. 7.—Verdicts of accidental deaths were returned here today by a coroner's inquest into two of eight fatalities resulting from the double Illinois Central train wreck at Mounds, Ill., Monday. Sixty persons were injured.

Nothing was introduced in evidence, to show just how the huge iron pipe which caused the wreck found its way onto the track.

The inquest was held by Dr. O. M. Dickerson, coroner of Cairo, into the deaths of Mrs. Bud Snider and Joe Sedinch, her brother, both of West Orange, N. J.

Meanwhile, the dead list this afternoon stood at eight, with approximately two score injured still at St. Mary's Hospital. Only three, however, were considered critical. They were Matthew Hiller, Canton, Miss., severe scalp, eye and foot injuries; Mrs. Alvin Solinski, Nashville, Tenn., crushed arm; Mr. Alvin Solinski, her husband, six broken ribs.

POLITICS IN THE PULPIT

(The following is from the pen of W. C. Bran, editor of Iconoclast, one of the most brilliant, courageous and able writers of country ever produced. He could scale the starry heights and ride the rainbows. Often his words were those of the cooing dove, then would roar like a lion and use the lash of ridicule, irony and sarcasm with an effect the like of which few writers have ever equaled. The Sentinel thinks possibly his delineation of "Politics in the Pulpit" apropos at the present time. In reproducing the article it is not to be understood that The Sentinel endorses it in its entirety.)

"I suspect that I will have to adopt radical measures to prevent my brother ministers making political harangues from the pulpit. Thus far my friendly warnings have been without effect. I am naturally patient and long-suffering; but there's a point where forbearance ceases to be a virtue, and I much fear that I'll have to make a frightful example of a few contumacious offenders—excommunicate and drop them with a dull hollow plunk beyond the ministerial pale. I dislike to resort to extreme measures with the misguided; but, as the duly ordained monitor of the American ministers, an entrusted with a sacred duty. If all my suffragans cannot be orthodox they must at least be decent. I have determined that, come what may, the pulpit shall not be profaned by a lot of tickle-tailed politicians. I haven't the slightest objection to the preachers under my apostolic protection making political harangues and whooping it up for this or the other partisan organization; but when they desire to do so they must mount a convenient dry goods box or hire a hall. They did not surrender their rights as American citizens on entering the ministry, secularly considered, they are both in the world and of it. They enjoy all the political prerogatives which even the swiftest bartender can boast. They are the equals before the law of the man who drives a (Continued on page 2)

dray, the political peers of the autocratic policeman. I have not striven to coerce them into voting for my favorite candidate. I advised them to exercise perfect freedom in such affairs without fear of losing their pastorates; but did not mean thereby that they were privileged to turn their churches into political wigwags and spew their pseudo-economics from the pulpit. Christ preached no political sermons; yet Palestine was in a far worse condition during his ministry than is America today. He did not so much as mention the Roman tyranny, the currency, tariff or prohibition questions in his Sermon on the Mount; they may have been "great moral issues," but evidently did not concern the mission of our Master. When he found dove dealers and money changers occupying the porches of the temple he scourged them thence. Had he discovered a political caucus in the holy-of-holies and the high-priest haranguing the people in the auditorium on the evils of free silver or the gold standard or an "moral issue," he would have gone after the godless gang with a scourge of cords—he would have procured an adult club, studded with brass nails, and wearing an iron knob as large as that anchored to the end of a Republican's neck. As a Roman citizen, St. Paul may have taken a lively interest in administrative measures; but he failed to incorporate his political views in his famous epistles. He didn't pretend to preach Christ crucified to get an opportunity to air his private opinions about gold-bugs or repudiationists, the McKinley atrocity or "the crime of '73." Of the entire thirteen Apostles, Judas Isariot was the only one who mixed the currency question with his religion, and he insisted on the Republican ratio of thirty-to-one. Learning by experience that he was an economic ass, he put an end to his existence. In religion the preacher is exalted above his people; but in politics he's on an exact parity with the sexton who dusts the pews, or the sinner on the back seats. I have been moved to these remarks by the horse-play of Rev. Thos. Dixon Jr., who precipitated a disgraceful row in church by mixing matters temporarily and spiritual instead of taking the latter straight; the pollution of various temples dedicated to the Deity, by the intemperate partisan harangues of Bishop Newman, Dominic MacArthur, Doc Talmage, Sam Jones and other gentlemen of the cloth who have mistaken the vineyard for a political convention. The Hartford Fire Insurance Co. is sending out, as a McKinley campaign document, a sermon preached by Rev. F. F. Emerson of Gloucester, Mass., which, for deliberate sacrilege complicated with colossal impudence, lays over anything I have hitherto seen. It is a rehash of the most violent harangues made by McKinley boosters on the hustings, seasoned with a sacred virulence which suggests that admixture of the odium politicum and the theologium makes an unsavory compound of bigotry and bile, greed and gall worthy the cauldron of Shakespeare's witches, a delectable dish of the Prince of Darkness. Granting that every proposition of the reverend blatherskite be correct; that Bryan is an enemy of all social order and his followers red-flags and repudiationists, while G. Cleveland is a little tin god who is giving his precious life for the people; still, I submit that the pulpit is not the proper place for such promulgations. A minister of the gospel cannot afford to substitute either Bryan or McKinley for Christ. No man can serve two masters—even though these be Grover Cleveland and Almighty God. My bump of reverence is not so altitudinous that I can rent it for an astronomical observatory; but I do portend that when a preacher invites people to hear him discourse on the beauties of religion, then regales them with a disquisition on partisan politics and an indecent exposure of his economical ignorance, he should be seized tenderly but firmly by the bust of his panties and "turn tro de roof." There may be preachers who know something about politics; there may be ministers who have made an exhaustive study of economics; but during forty years wandering in this terrestrial wilderness I failed to find 'em. I'll wager the price of my pew-rent against a yaller pup that not a single preacher who has been puking politics over his congregation during the present campaign can quote one line from Smith of Mill or Montesquieu, can repeat three paragraphs of the Federal constitution or name in their proper order the American presidents. Yet these windblown guts attempt to give to their political ineptitude somewhat of the sanctity which encircles the Savior.

THE COUNCIL AT JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Acts 15:1-35.
GOLDEN TEXT—If the Son shall make you free ye shall be free indeed.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Children Refuse to Quarrel.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Christians Consulting Together.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul Opposes Religious Prejudices.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul Stands for Christian Liberty.

I. The Controversy in the Church at Antioch (vv. 1-5).

This difficulty was a most serious one, for it threatened the disruption of the church into Jewish and Gentile divisions. It was not a question of the admission of the Gentiles into the church. That had been settled some years before when Peter received Cornelius and his household. The question now was, on what ground can they be received? Should Gentile converts be required to keep the Mosaic law as a condition of salvation? This issue was brought on by the coming of men from Jerusalem, who declared, "Except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved (v. 1)." The question was so difficult that Paul and Barnabas were unable to put them to silence. These Jewish legalists had the letter of the Scripture on their side. They could point to the command where this was enjoined upon believers (Gen. 17:14). Paul could not point to any Scripture where it had been abrogated. If Paul could plead that Abraham was justified before he was circumcised, his antagonist could answer, "Yes, but after justification the rite was divinely imposed." The brethren at Antioch decided to refer the matter to the church at Jerusalem. Accordingly, Paul and Barnabas and others were sent as a deputation to Jerusalem. On the way they passed through Phoenicia and Samaria, declaring the news of the conversion of the Gentiles, which was received with much joy.

II. The Deliberations of the Council (vv. 6-21).

1. Peter's speech (vv. 6-11). He argued that God had borne witness to His acceptance of the Gentiles by giving the Holy Spirit to them as unto the Jews (Acts 10:34-47). Since, therefore, God had not put a difference it would be folly for them to do so. God's action in sending Peter unto them was the answerable proof that there was no distinction to be made.

2. Paul and Barnabas rehearsed their experience (v. 12). They told how that God had set His seal of approval on their preaching of salvation by grace through faith apart from works, by the working of signs and wonders through them.

3. The argument of James (vv. 14-21).

He took the fact declared by Peter and showed how it harmonized with the prophecy of Amos (Amos 9:11-15). He showed that the reception of the Gentiles was not in conflict but in strict harmony with God's plan. As set forth in James' speech, God's plan is as follows: (1) To take out from among the Gentiles a people for His name (v. 14). This is what is now going on, the preaching of the gospel to the ends of the earth, and the calling out of the church.

(2) After the church is completed and removed, the Israelitish nation will be converted and restored to their land and privileges by the Lord Himself at His return (vv. 16, 17).

(3) Following this will be the conversion of the world through the agency of the converted Israel (v. 17, cf. Rom. 11:15). He showed that there is no conflict when the Scriptures are rightly divided. His judgment was that the Gentiles should not be troubled with things that are Jewish, but should be warned to abstain from pollutions of idols, and from fornication, and from things strangled, and from blood.

III. The Decision (vv. 22-29).

The Jerusalem church came to a unanimous agreement and accepted the resolution offered by James. They not only sent a letter stating the decision of the conference, but took the wise precaution of sending influential men along with Paul and Barnabas to bear the same testimony by word of mouth. This letter denied the authority of the Judaizing teachers (v. 24), and declared the method by which this decision had been reached (vv. 25-27). The Holy Spirit was to be given first place, and the Gentile believers were instructed to abstain from meats offered to idols, from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication.

IV. The Decision Delivered to the Church (vv. 30-35).

The church was called together to hear the report. Its reading brought great rejoicing. They were now free to prosecute the great missionary work.

CHRYSLER ANNOUNCES THE NEW DE SOTO SIX

The new DeSoto Six, generally regarded as Walter P. Chrysler's most important engineering offering to the motor public since the appearance of the original Chrysler car, is on display at S. M. Brown Motor Co.'s showroom at Superior Service Station. Mr. Brown, who has just returned from a trip to the DeSoto factor, is enthusiastic over the new car. It exhibits a degree of style, beauty and roominess hitherto unknown in its price field. It is built in seven body styles and standard bodies are priced well under $900 at the factory.

While preserving a distinctly individual appearance, the DeSoto Six instantly proclaims its Chrysler parentage and its Chrysler heritage of Standardized Quality. It will, DeSoto-Chrysler officials believe, cause a sensation in its price class equalled only by that which the original Chrysler car caused when four years ago it materially advanced the standards of the entire motor car industry. The DeSoto Six is, officials add, Mr. Chrysler's answer to the insistent demand for a bigger, more powerful and more luxurious car in the field of lower priced Sixes.

Flashing getaway, smoothness of operation at all speeds and instant stopping power, with all the power and performance characteristics for which Chrysler cars are known the world over, have been incorporated into the Chrysler-built DeSoto Six. The engine, of Chrysler design and manufacture, has an S. A. E. rating of 21.6 horse power and actually develops in excess of 55 horse power. The "Silver Dome" perfected high compression cylinder head, using any standard grade of gasoline and extracting the maximum in power, hill climbing ability, acceleration and speed, is standard equipment. The famous "Red Head" which obtains even greater speed and power from high test fuels is also available.

Women, to Look Well, You Must Be Well!

Gilbertown, Ala.—"For eighteen years I suffered, I believe, with every ailment a woman could have. I was rundown, had palpitation, stomach was in bad condition, had a roaring noise in my head, was very easily frightened at the least little thing, couldn't wash, cook, work, and was in a bad fix, but since taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery,' 'Pleasant Pellets,' and 'Anurio Tablets,' and using the Lotion Tablets and Suppositories, I work, eat anything I wish, walk two miles and am the picture of health. Am doing things I had not been able to do in 18 years."—Mrs. Carrie Cariale, Route 2, All dealers.

Mrs. Kissy Dunaway a Victim of the Wreck.

The wreck on the I. C. Railroad at Mound, Ill., came vividly to our attention when we learned that Mrs. Kissy Dunaway, wife of our friend, Mr. J. H. Dunaway, was aboard the ill-fated train and was a victim of the disaster. We can adjust our mind to the inevitable in the taking away of our friends and loved ones but when it happens in a tragical way, it doubles the burden of grief. Mrs. Dunaway had been to Chicago to visit her children who live there and was en route home. Truly the statement of the poet who wrote "In the midst of life we are in death" is brought forcibly to our minds as a vital truth. Mrs. Dunaway was a loving, lovable character who had labored in the world to make it better and had done her bit to try to make it a place fit to live in. For years she was a teacher in our public schools and never lost an opportunity to train the young people to strive to live a life worth while. She was very active as a church worker and from early womanhood had been a splendid Christian character.

Her home life was beautifully for under its influence she had raised a large family of splendid children whose lives today are casting love and sunshine wherever they go. She leaves to mourn her loss a loving husband, obedient children and a host of admiring friends.

Back she came...
A millionaire's wife
—and BROKEN-HEARTED

AS far back as Cherry could remember, poverty and squalor were the only life she had ever known. Many a lonely, aching night, through hot tears of self-pity, she had gazed with wistful, longing eyes into a dream-world of love, tenderness, compassion, beauty—a world that seemed forever beyond her reach.

But as Cherry blossomed into young womanhood, her determination to conquer life brought freedom, friends, success.

Then romance came. As the wife of Dick Berringer—young, rich, boyishly handsome—Cherry's measure of happiness seemed complete. Then—catastrophe! A merciless fate decreed that she go back to the gutter whence she came. With bleeding heart she saw snatched from her all the love, comfort and happiness she had fought for so bravely and so long.

What strange circumstances conspired to crush her under this frightful load of misery? Why must she exchange an honored name for the bitterness of shame and degradation?

You will want to read the whole heart-breaking story, exactly as Cherry tells it. It is entitled "Shattered Dreams," and appears complete in the September issue of True Story Magazine.

The Sentinel is authorized to announce the following as candidates for Congress of the United States from the Fourth Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries in August:

C. H. ALDRIDGE, of Montgomery County.
A. T. PATTERSON, of Calhoun County

OUR CHOICE FOR U. S. SENATOR HUBERT D. STEPHENS FOR RE-ELECTION

THIRTY SEVEN REASONS WHY SENATOR STEPHENS SHOULD BE RE-ELECTED.

1. Because it is old time Jeffersonian, Democratic, usage to give a faithful public official an endorsement by a reelection.
2. Because his record is not one of promises to be but of DEEDS PERFORMED.
3. Because he is able, patriotic, industrious, energetic, effective, diplomatic, tactful, unassuming, honest, loyal, courageous and sincerely desirous of rendering the people of Mississippi and the whole country a lasting public service.
4. Because he does not use his tongue to needlessly lash but his brain to accomplish.
5. Because he is personally popular with his fellow senators who take a delight in cooperating with him.
6. Because his experience gained as a senator is an asset to Mississippi.
7. Because he understands the fundamental principles of government as interpreted and put into effect by our fathers.
8. Because he would trump up no charge or make a bug-a-boo of nobody's prejudice to the detriment of an adversary.
9. Because his speeches and his public utterances are his own and are not prepared by, or borrowed from, anybody else, living or dead.
10. Because he is a student of men and of conditions and is therefore prepared to develop convictions of his very own.
11. Because he is intensely human—just as plain as an "old shoe", and sympathizes with and believes in the man struggling for a livelihood.
12. Because he is not an upstart in anything or a braggart anywhere.
13. Because he believes in his fellowman and in the honesty and good intentions of mankind.
14. Because there is always a risk in swapping a faithful, effective public servant for a new one.
15. Because he has followed Democratic standards and to displace him now, the outside world would have reason to think that Mississippi does not endorse Democratic principles and that this state will line up with the Republican party.
16. Because there is nothing in his private life that would justify a refusal to endorse him—and as men are as private citizens so they are as public officials.
17. Because he has been fighting the Republican party since his boyhood.
18. Because he has never compromised Democracy or confederated with those who sit at the flesh pots so dear to the heart of the Republican party.
19. Because the official mantle of John Sharp Williams was laid upon Hubert Stephens and it would be cruel to tear it away.
20. Because when the United States Senate was trailing those Republican cabinet officers who had sold oil lands and otherwise bartered away hundreds of millions of dollars worth of property which belonged to the people for filthy lucre, Hubert Stephens was among those who pushed the investigation and said "lay on McDuff".
21. Because he prepared and got through the Senate a bill to pay back to the people of Mississippi $9,000,000.00 wrongfully collected by the Republican party just after the Civil War.
22. Because when our great delta section was overflowed, he visited that section and in skiff and canoe paddled through the waters to see at first hand the devastation and what was needed to be done.
23. Because when Congress had under consideration the bill to make further Mississippi overflows impossible—the Flood Control Bill—Hon. Alf Stone, of Mississippi, who was in Washington working for some sort of a stop flood law, states over his signature that Senator Hubert Stephens was one of the most active and effective members of the Senate in getting the law passed.
24. Because the Mississippi Levee Board has by resolution endorsed Senator Stephens' action in getting passed the Flood Control Law and has thanked him for his effective aid.
25. Because Hon. Alf Stone and the Mississippi Levee Board have rebuked the charger and refuted the charge that Stephens was not on the job to help the delta—they ought to know.
26. Because he is no sort of a demagogue and would not, even to attain victory, pretend to believe and urge a thing that he knows Annals would stagger at and that would appeal to anybody's prejudice.
27. Because he has stood for a white man's government all these years and because he protested against Mr. Hoover's order to make whites and negroes sit side by side in the Department of Commerce at Washington.
28. Because he acts while others talk, and when some were shooting at the moon about "the nigger", Stephens was telling it straight to Hoover.
29. Because every white man and every white woman in Mississippi owes him a debt of gratitude because he told it to Hoover as soon as it was done and did not wait to try to make political capital out of it.
30. Because he is a member of some of the most important committees in the senate which enables him to be right where he can speak and act at once for his people.

31. Because his membership on the Judiciary Committee, which is second importance to no committee in the senate, enables him to fight and stifle any sort of a lynching law, the passage of which would be most serious to every southern state and a grave trespass on the Constitution.
32. Because the people have shown such faith in him that he has never been defeated for public office.
33. Because he has not talked to the galleries at Washington City and then gone off to play.
34. Because he has not acted as if every day was a holiday with him at Washington City—he has not played while others worked but has worked while others played. Being a senator is no plaything with him.
35. Because he has been so concerned about legislation he has proposed that he has followed up his bills by appearing before committees to urge their passage.
36. Because Federal Judge, Edwin Holmes of Yazoo City, in whose court at Biloxi a few days ago, true bills were returned charging federal office selling and buying in Mississippi, stated publicly at the Neshoba Fair that but for the law which Hubert Stephens got the senate to pass there could have been no indictments on these charges—another instance of working while somebody else talks.
37. Because as an official he deserves that commendation so beautifully set forth in Holy Writ, "Well done good and faithful servant".

METHODIST BISHOPS OFF THE TRACK.

To our way of thinking those Bishops of the Methodist church, South, who have joined together to take part in the presidential campaign, are off the track. They are trying to lead where but few laymen will follow.

The ministers of the church who attempt to carry what the Bishops are saying to their congregations will, in our humble opinion, make a most serious mistake, a mistake that will lessen their influence as a shepherd of the Master and that will do the Methodist church a most serious injury.

We are a Methodist ourselves, hence feel somewhat more at liberty to speak of what some of our own church are attempting to do. It seems that many of the good Baptist brethren are as deep in this attempt to daub political mud on the sacred call which they claim the Master gave them to preach as are these Methodists. We make these observations regardless of how these reverend gentlemen might "line up", as the term is used in politics. It matters not what cause they espouse, the reaction is the same. We most respectfully suggest to these brethren who are letting their zeal for what they term a "moral issue", lead them into the wilderness of politics, that they might profit by observing what the Presbyterian and Episcopal clergy are doing—they are not sticking their nose into political messes.

We make these statements not to help or hurt any candidate's cause for the presidency, but for the cause of pure, unadulterated religion. Nobody holds the Christian ministry in higher esteem than we do. When sickness is in a home, their visits and their prayers are as messages from the Great City above. When the death angel, or sorrow, invades a home, their words of sympathy and love come as a benediction to bleeding hearts from almost the very lips of Him who agonized in Gethsemane and who taught and lived love and forgiveness. He did not undertake to reform governments but to make over the hearts of men and women.

History shows that even great men have overestimated the importance of public issues and that the tendency has been to make many issues in politics a question of right or wrong as to the voter's attitude. Evidently the M. E. Church, South, thought that there was a "moral issue" involved when slavery separated the Methodists of these United States prior to the Civil War.

In 1896, men went up and down the land and proclaimed that the free coinage of silver was a "moral question" and that those who did not agree with them were actually particeps criminis to "the gold bugs stealing from the masses".

Bishop Mouzon had a lengthy article in a recent issue of the New Orleans Christian Advocate in which he discussed Roman Catholicism and Al Smith as a Catholic. We are wondering if some of these good Bishops are not mixing Roman Catholicism with their politics, and if they are not mistaking religious prejudices for patriotism (?) It would seem that the people of these United States ought to have reached that point in their education and in their church life where they realize that St. Peter will ask no questions at the pearly gates as to what church one belonged to.

We repeat, that what side these men who claim that they have been called to preach the Gospel of Christ, take, cuts no figure. As we see it, they are simply getting into a mire the muck of which will cling to them, and that what they do will tend to chill the spirit of those whose hearts and minds yearn not for what the swine feed upon every day but that bread which enables them to keep close to the Master and to seek Him daily in earnest meditation. The preacher has a right to his convictions about men and measures just as much as any other man, but his political ideas should not be thrust forth from the pulpit.

WEBBER WILSON'S EFFORTS A DISMAL FAILURE

From our view of the situation it seems that Congressman Wilson is making a strong effort to find some reason why he should be elected to succeed Senator Stephens, but his efforts seem to be proving a dismal failure. The best reason given is that he simply wants to be elected United States Senator, but this, in our opinion, is one that will not induce the people of Mississippi to turn against a faithful public servant such as Hubert Stephens has proven to be.—Woodville (Wilkerson County) Republican.

CLARION-LEDGER SAYS STEPHENS A WINNER.

Reports from over the state are to the effect that Senator Hubert Stephens will be an easy winner in the senatorial campaign.

This does not mean, however, that his friends should let up in their work. They should continue their efforts until the final vote is in the ballot box.

His opponent's course of hollering "nigger, nigger, nigger" over the state, and with so little foundation for the insinuations, is not approved by many of his closest friends.

That period in Mississippi politics passed several years ago, and will never return. Agitation of that kind gives to the negro race an exaggerated idea of their importance, and in that way does much harm, but as a political asset for a white man, it is nil.

Senator Stephens is one of the ablest members of the United States Senate. He is a hard worker, has the good will and confidence of Democrats and Republicans, and is in better position to serve the people of Mississippi now than ever before.

South Mississippi has one United States Senator, the Governor and Lieutenant Governor, and now that section wants the other Senator.

No, reports do not indicate that they want the other Senator. On the contrary, it is very evident from reports that South Mississippi will vote to give North Mississippi the junior senator by voting for the reelection of Hubert Stephens.

This should be done as a matter of fairness, if for no other reasons.—Clarion-Ledger, Aug. 5.

No, brother, South Mississippi in this instance does not "want the other senator".

TENNESSEE FORESHADOWS WEBBER'S DEFEAT.

If it is true that "coming events cast their shadows before," then Congressman T. Webber Wilson can find mighty little consolation in the returns from the Democratic primary held in Tennessee on Thursday.

The Volunteer State has as one of its Senators Kenneth D. McKellar, recognized far and wide as one of the ablest members of the upper branch of the national law-making body.

It also has in the House a very able and aggressive Congressman in the person of Finis J. Garrett, leader of the Democratic minority.

Garrett aspired to snatch the toga from McKellar's shoulders, and announced as a candidate for the Senate, despite the earnest warnings of friends that he didn't have a ghost of a chance to win.

He didn't. The primary returns show the nomination of McKellar by an overwhelming majority. The voters of Tennessee were well-satisfied with the services he had rendered, and could see no reason for a change.

It's the same way in Mississippi. Senator Hubert Stephens has made an excellent record since he was chosen as the successor of John Sharp Williams. There is no reason why he should be displaced, and this is why Congressman T. Webber Wilson is destined to meet with a stinging defeat at the primary on August 21st.

A man who has labored earnestly and faithfully to serve his people cannot be displaced simply because another man is seeking higher honors.—Jackson Daily News, Aug. 5.

LIFE AS I SEE IT

By T. E. Winborn, Jr., Elliott
Which Way?

The Sun-Shines On.
To every man there openeth a way, and ways and a way. And the high soul climbs the high way, and the low soul gropes the low and in between, on the misty flats, the rest drift to and fro.

But to every man there openeth a high way and a low.

And every man decideth the way, his soul shall go.

John Oxenham

Which is perhaps the greatest truth of life, the truth that we go only the way we wish to go, that we follow the path of our own choosing. We are all traveling down the highway of life, carrying on 'til we cross the great river and rest at peace on eternity's shore.

And some of us take the broad and open road and follow it until we see a shady little bypath that seems to be a short-cut, and we are tempted to stray and perhaps do follow it only to find that it ends in a morass of sighs and troubles. And then we wish to turn back, often when it's too late.

And some of us start out on a rocky road and follow it often after it seems utterly impossible to go any further, but we stick to it and finally we round a curve, and there's the beautiful, broad high way shining before us, and we are proud that our fight has not been in vain, that we have reached the road of our dreams, the road that leads to happiness.

Yes, we are all following some road, whether we realize it or not, some of us rocky roads and some of us smooth ones, some of us just drifting with the crowd, others fighting things out for themselves. But it's well to stop some time and ponder over just where your road is taking you, if to destruction and despair, or to success and happiness. Because, one road leads to eternal hell and the other to everlasting peace, and no man should be weak enough to be indifferent to his future. Souls must go one way, the high, or the low. Which way are you traveling?

Some years ago I was riding on a train in the west. It was about the middle of the afternoon of a bright, August day, and I was sitting there, planning the good time I would have when I reached San Francisco, when all at once the train was plunged in darkness. Of course, for the minute, I was thrown into a fright, but then I remembered the tunnels near the city and returned to normal, because in spite of the darkness, I knew that the sun was still shining, that we would soon be in its light again.

There are bright moments in our life when we can see things from the peak, when our vision is remarkably clear and we get a glimpse of the eternal scheme of things. But these bright moments are comparatively few.

The most of the time we are traveling through the tunnels of darkness and despair. Day after day all we can do is keep the revelation of those bright moments in our memory and plod on through the fog and obscurity, trusting more to faith than to sight.

We cannot always stay in the brightness of life. Most of our journey through life is in the darkness.

The sailor must go on steering his course by the stars when there are no stars for him to see. But he knows that the stars are there. He remembers that he once has seen them and waits for their appearance again.

In love, we rarely are able to see the beauty of its indescribable grandeur. We have to plod on, hoping and believing that what we have once known we shall know again. However, dark the way may be, we must believe that the brightness still exists, that the sun still shines on.

That soul that only goes forward when he can see every step of the way will not go far. The majority of the time we have to advance into the dark by the compass of faith and hope.

The man who tells the truth only as long as the truth seems to be the best policy and doesn't mind being if it seems to help him, has a poor quality of truthfulness. Because only that soul who tells the truth in the dark as well as the light, only that man who will follow the truth even when it seems to lead to destruction, deserves to be called truthful.

None of us can see but a little way ahead the most of the time. We are extremely lucky, if, now and then, we reach the peak where the great panorama of life unfolds. But, if afterwards, the darkness of life seems to engulf us, we must remember, that no matter how long the tunnel of obscurity, no matter how dim the light grows, always we can always wade to our selves in the bleakest hour. I know that.

"The sun shines on".

MRS. E. D. DUKE DIED WEDNESDAY

Mrs. E. D. Duke (formerly Mrs. Willis) passed away at her home in Grenada Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. She had been in declining health for several years. She was a member of the Presbyterian church, and had lived as best she could according to the teachings of that religious faith. She was a kindly natured woman and met the duties of wife and mother in the light of the obligations of each day. Mrs. Duke was born and reared near Graysport, this county, and was a daughter of Ben Williams. Her mother was a Miss Perry, and a sister of the father of Mr. John C. Perry and other members of the well known Perry family in this county. She is survived by two children, Mr. Sam Stewart, of Dallas, Texas, a son by her first husband, and Mrs. Norman Willis of Marks, Miss., and her husband. As this is written the hour of the funeral has not been determined. Definite arrangements for the funeral are awaiting the arrival of the son who is enroute to Grenada. The Presbyterian minister is away on his vacation and it has been arranged to have Rev. J. H. Holder of the Methodist church and W. E. Farr of the First Baptist church say the last sad words over the remains.

To the sorrowing The Sentinel tenders sympathy.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish it were possible for us to say what is in our hearts and in the way of gratitude and sincere appreciation to all who were so kind and loving to our dear wife and mother during her long illness and for the many evidences of genuine sympathy and love after she was called away. May God watch over and care for each and all.

NERVES Went to Pieces

"I suffered a long time, before I tried Cardui," says Mrs. Lillie Pruitt, 130 "K" St., Anderson, S. C.

"I was badly run-down in health. My nerves 'went to pieces', and I had to go to bed."

"I got so bad off, I could not bear to have anybody walk across the floor of my room. The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had bad pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs would take spells of aching, which almost set me wild."

"One day I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it. It began to help me from the very first. I took Cardui regularly, for several months, and my improvement was so remarkable my family and friends were delighted."

Try Cardui for your troubles. At all drug stores.

Celebrates 21st Birthday Party.

On last Thursday evening Dr. and Mrs. J. Sidney Sharp entertained from 8 till 10 with a beautifully appointed dinner-party, in honor of their son, John Sidney, Jr., to celebrate his twenty-first birthday. Before the young people were seated at the table, Mr. Stokes Kimbrough acted as toastmaster, and the guests drank to the health of their host. Between the four courses of the delectable dinner, several gifts with appropriate toasts were presented the honor guest, which caused much merriment, the most appropriate, being a miniature "track suit", of black satin, trimmed in varicolored bands, presented by the young ladies through Miss Daisy Leigh Roane, with the following toast: "Although we aren't permitted birthday gifts to bring to sing, this token of love could be bought for a song, as it's not very wide and not very long; so when you are running the record to beat, in this garment so dashing, we know you'll look sweet." Just before the last course was served the beautifully decorated white birthday cake, surrounded by pink roses and ferns, and with twenty-one pink candles burning brightly on it, was brought in to John Sidney. After he had cut the first slice, each guest in turn cut for the fortunes contained therein, with the following as the lucky ones: Robert Mullin cut the dime, Ira Parks, the thimble and Ed Meek Wagner, the ring. As no one was lucky or unlucky enough to cut the button, signifying, "a life of single blessedness", it is likely that soon wedding bells may start ringing.

The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the table decorations and throughout the lovely dining room. In the center of the table around which sat twenty-two guests, was a large silver basket tied with pink tulle, in which were beautiful pink Gladioli and ferns. Two smaller silver baskets were at each end, containing pink roses and ferns, and silver candle sticks with pink candles, in between. The places of the guests were marked by attractive place-cards, the girls receiving dainty bottles of perfume and the boys boutonnières of pink sweetheart roses and ferns.

John Sidney responded beautifully to the various toasts and a general happy time was enjoyed, as lovely guests make lovely parties.

The following young ladies and gentlemen were the fortunate ones present: Miss Louise Hoffa occupying the seat of honor by the honoree, Misses Daisy Leigh Roane, Mary Emma Howze, of Texarkana, Ark., Mary Ida Sharp, Lucy Talbert, Teensie Stevens, Mary Patton Wilkins and Lillian Perry, Messrs. FARM STOCK

STEERS FATTENED ON BARLEY DIET

That there is a place for barley in the Minnesota cattle feeding program was shown when the results of feeding experiments were reported at the annual Cattle Feeders' day exercises at University farm near St. Paul, Minn. W. H. Peters, chief of the animal husbandry division, presented the conclusions drawn from the series of experiments carried on 175 days. Ground barley full fed to one lot of ten steers proved very satisfactory, although the gains did not quite equal the gains made by another lot of ten which was given a full feed of shelled corn. Whole barley, on the other hand, fed to a third lot of ten, proved very unsatisfactory, demonstrating that barley must be ground to be fed profitably. Each lot received in addition to the test feeds a basic ration of two pounds of linseed meal per head daily, and alfalfa hay and corn silage, both full fed.

The trials were important, said the university man, because many cattle are being raised in sections of Minnesota where corn for grain is not a regularly successful and profitable crop. If barley can be used successfully in these localities for fattening cattle for market, then stock raisers can add materially to their incomes. Professor Peters also explained that there are advantages in growing barley for cattle even where corn is a successful crop.

Another experiment reported made it clear that there was no appreciable advantage in grinding and mixing shelled corn and dry roughage for fattening yearling steers when fair to good quality of feeds were being used. Steers fed the whole feeds for the purpose of comparison proved more profitable than those fed the ground mixed feeds.

Market Now Established for Little Lambskins

Commercial value has been established for little lambskins. Heretofore lambskins have been a total loss. It is reported that a limited outlet has been found for these skins. Hide buyers through the northwest are buying them. The fact that a market now exists permits the sheep owner to salvage a small profit from the lamb loss. According to reports the older the lamb the better the skin, as the wool is longer. Those who are familiar with the market demand for lambskins say that the skins should be stretched out flat. The skin should not be cased but should be tacked up against a wall or board to dry but should not be stretched too tight. Price quotations range from 25 to 75 cents each for these skins.

Poll Evil and Fistula Caused by an Infection

Poll evil and fistulous withers are caused by the infection of the parts affected after an injury. This leads to pus formation and the death of part of the tissues involved. If the infection is slight, treatment of one kind or another may be successful. Even then several months may be required for healing, writes Dr. L. Van Es in Capper's Weekly. In cases of long standing, with painful swelling and abundant pus discharge, the outlook is not promising. Even good surgery often fails to effect a cure. Even in cases which eventually heal, the length of time necessary for the treatment often exceeds from three to nine months, rendering the procedure expensive. It takes a valuable horse to be worth the treatment.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Wean pigs when eight weeks old. Fermented feed isn't good for pigs.

Bran isn't a safe feed for young pigs. It irritates the bowels and may cause trouble.

Stock keepers without a silo who are keeping ten head pay for a silo each year. They do in the extra cost of feeding and the lower amount produced.

Growers of beef cattle have an era of prosperity just ahead of them, promise students of agricultural economics. There is a shortage of good beef animals at present.

Rigorous culling of unfit breeding animals is one of the fundamental factors of success in live stock improvement and applies to swine in the same degree as to other classes of farm animals.

Brood sows should be kept separate from the growing pigs and those that are being fattened for the market and should be given special attention in the way of housing.

Hog cholera may be carried by dogs. If this disease is present in a community, it is a wise practice to tie the dogs up to prevent them spreading the disease to other herds.

The addition of skim milk to a swine ration does not make up for the deficiency of the fat-soluble vitamins in white corn, which should be supplemented with tannage or meat meal.

A. T. PATTERSON

Patterson and His Friends Resent Insinuations of Jeff Busby

To the white Democrats of the Fourth Congressional District:

My attention has just been called to a campaign article published in the county papers of the District as Mr. Busby's political advertisement headed - "PERRY HOWARD WOULD REJOICE TO SEE JEFF BUSBY DEFEATED". The puny insinuations sought to be conveyed by this campaign canard are insults to every white man and woman of this District. He publishes his imaginary friend's statement that - "Perry Howard and his gang will be proud of every voter who casts his vote against you - (Busby) for Congress etc". This insidious and labored effort to have the white men and women of this district believe that this burly negro is peering in on their political sentiments and their votes for or against their neighbors in a white Democratic Primary must be prompted, either by a mind distorted by ambition to further hold high office, or by a frenzied desire to divert the minds of the voters from a now nearly six years BARREN RECORD IN Congress.

Before the publication of this unwarranted "Little Statement" as he well termed it, I had not in this campaign referred to Mr. Busby, save only his former platforms advocating rotation in office and never to his supporters, nor even to his record or LACK OF RECORD of nearly six years in Congress. But since the enactment of the so-called Federal Patronage Law is now his SOLE CLAIM for a three term record in Congress, and for re-election for another term, let us look at this record. It is claimed that his was "The Moving Spirit" in securing the enactment of the legislation that made possible the prosecution of those guilty of buying and selling Offices. The records show, it is admitted by all, that Congressman Stephenson of South Carolina introduced in the House the bill that later became the present patronage law. Our Congressman introduced two resolutions in the House calling on the Postmaster General and the Attorney General to produce the proof collected by special investigations appointed by them, but he was not able even to secure a favorable report on his resolutions before the Committee of the House to which they were referred.

The very active and able service rendered by Congressman T. Webber Wilson, now a candidate for United States senator, in the passage of this legislation, has been so conclusively shown by the press and public speeches of this distinguished gentleman that mention of it here would be superfluous. Senator Stephen's very prompt and efficient service in securing this legislation has been repeatedly stated and published by him and admitted by all, and if press reports are to be relied upon, about every Congressman and Senator south of the Mason and Dixon line, and especially from South Carolina to Texas, are basing their claims for re-election on the part they played in the passage of this law, yet our Congressman claims to be the "Moving Spirit" and "Sole Actor" on the stage, which is just about as near true as the insidious charge that every man and woman who vote for me, or our other opponent, or who are now supporting us are political allies of a negro. My fathers and mothers have lived in our beloved southland for nearly two hundred years, and in what is now Calhoun County, Mississippi, close to a century. My father was a Confederate soldier at sixteen years of age, and my mother's father left his family to battle in the same cause for white supremacy and our southern rights, and through all these years we have known and been taught by example and precept how to attend a negro when he gets out of his place in that good old effective Mississippi way, and no man has greater contempt for the acts of those who have connived with these negroes and unscrupulous white Republicans to barter and sell Federal patronage than I have, or no man is more desirous than I of seeing them placed in the penitentiary where they ought to have been long ago.

This law was passed now more than two years ago, and became a law in December 1926 - "What has our Congressman been doing for the last two years?" What did he do during the nearly four years he was in office before this law was introduced, or this matter brought to the attention of Congress?

I have endeavored to conduct my campaign on a high plane, and on my own merits and record as a citizen, lawyer, and public official and on my platform heretofore published, advocating honesty in office high and low, opposing bribery and corruption in any form, and denouncing the infamy of those leaders of the Republican Party, high and low, not only by the sale of Public Offices, but by the sale of millions of dollars worth of government property for private gain and power. I have advocated in every speech that I have made, further limiting foreign immigration to this country, Farm Relief, Federal Aid for Drainage of our overflowed lands, and the more prompt aid for disabled soldiers of the world war, and opposed any change in our national prohibition laws.

On such record and on my position on these questions so vital to our happiness and prosperity, I ask your support on the 21st day of August.

A. T. PATTERSON.

SARGON INCREASES ZEST FOR LIVING

Scientific New Formula Is Bringing Health and Happiness to Thousands in New and Remarkable Way.

If you do not wake up in the mornings feeling rested and refreshed and ready for a good, hearty breakfast; if you are not brimful of energy and ready for a good day's work—you are not enjoying the blessings of health that should be yours.

Medical Science has at last found a way to overcome the great majority of common, every-day ailments which make us physically and mentally inefficient.

However, you can't cure constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, headaches and biliousness by blast-out the intestinal tract with calomel or other artificial laxatives and cathartics, or by using so-called digestive tablets, and other connections which give only temporary relief, if any at all. These ailments can be overcome in one way and one way alone—by treating them at their source, which is found to be a sluggish liver and the consequent lack of bile flow.

Bile is Nature's own laxative and people with a normal flow of bile are practically immune to constipation. It is a powerful digestant and if the flow is normal, indigestion and dyspepsia rarely exist in the normal individual. Bile is Nature's antiseptic and combats putrefaction and the formation of gas in the intestines. It is an alkaline and counteracts acid in the system.

In short, most of the half-sick, rundown people of today, with sallow complexions, headaches, coated tongues, bad breath and lowered vitality, who are troubled with indigestion and gas, dizziness and constipation, simply are not getting enough bile. Medical research has revealed that seven people out of ten, past the age of thirty, are in this condition.

It was formerly believed that calomel acted on the liver and increased bile flow. It has now been proven that calomel is a purgative and nothing else. It confines its action to the intestinal tract.

Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain an element which has been proven the most powerful stimulant to the bile-producing activity to the liver known. Unlike calomel, it does not shock or upset the system, cause nausea or other ill effects. It is a liver tonic and does its work by gently stimulating the liver to increase production of bile.

Sargon also contains other ingredients which are designed to build up the richness and vigor of the blood stream and to promote glandular secretions which are so vital to health. Sargon is also invaluable for its powerful tonic properties.

Sargon may be obtained in Grenada from Corner Drug Store. Copyright 1928 by G. F. Willis, Inc.

HORSE SHORTAGE SEEN BY CORNELL

A new Cornell bulletin on the farm horse situation in New York state says: "If history repeats itself, a shortage of young horses will develop in the next few years and prices of work horses will increase very materially."

This bulletin was prepared by C. E. Ladd, director of extension at the New York state college of agriculture at Cornell, from information received from more than three thousand typical farmers throughout New York state. It states further: "The demand for horses for farm and city work has decreased rapidly with the widespread use of automobiles, trucks and tractors. Tractors are replacing horses for heavier types of work on many farms. The automobile has been substituted for horse-drawn vehicles, and the truck is replacing the horse and the team on the country roads and especially on the city streets."

"This decreasing demand for horses has resulted in abnormally low prices. This, in turn, has caused farmers to raise less colts. The replacement of the present farm horses will constitute a major expense on our farms during the next ten years."

Copies of this bulletin, number E 169, like other Cornell bulletins, may be obtained free by requesting them from the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

Tankage, Oil Meal and Skim Milk for Swine

Generally, corn alone will not prove a satisfactory feed for full-feeding pigs even when they are on a legume or rape pasture, according to J. W. Wulchert, animal husbandry specialist of the extension service of the Ohio State university.

Corn and tankage or corn and a mixture of two parts tankage and one part oil meal will produce more rapid gains and less feed will be required to produce 100 pounds of gain than when corn alone or corn and middlings are used.

If the pigs are on blue grass pasture or have no forage at all, Wulchert recommends corn supplemented by a mixture of 50 pounds of tankage, 25 pounds of oil meal, and 25 pounds of alfalfa meal or ground alfalfa.

If skim milk is available in sufficient quantities it may be substituted for all or part of the recommended protein supplement. In general, corn, hominy, or corn and barley fed at the rate of 20 pounds to one pound of protein supplements, will prove to be the most practical combination for full-feeding pigs on pasture when both rate and economy of gain are considered.

Sows Carried Through Summer on Little Corn

Old sows can be carried through the summer with an ear or two of corn a day while on pasture and there isn't a better place to farrow the fall pigs than on good clean pastures. All hogs need plenty of water. A small stream, the outlet of a tile drain or a handy well are all convenient methods. Others use an automatic tank or barrel waterer on skids or fill their waterer from a tank wagon each day.

Skimping the feed while on pasture makes the hogs eat more green feed but it cuts down the rate of gain. The extra feed makes them grow and fatten, getting them to market in less time and on less feed. If at all possible the sows should be pushed all the time they are on pasture as less feed will be needed and the early fall market is usually more favorable than the later market.

LIVE STOCK ITEMS

Some recent experiments indicate that a tobacco and salt mixture is worthless as a stomach worm eradicator.

Rape is the best annual pasture crop for hogs. It can be drilled or broadcast early or late, it stands heavy pasturing and it gives a big yield.

Barley, and in fact, all the small grain, should be ground for pigs, and soaking improves the feed value. But let this be only from one meal to another.

One will get better results in fattening baby beef calves by feeding them dry feed entirely and simply giving them the run of a small yard for exercise.

A sound program of care combined with the right kind of feed will bring most of the pigs through in good shape and put them on the market at least expense.

While not as good as alfalfa, sweet clover makes a desirable pasture for hogs if it is not allowed to make too rank growth or become coarse or woody.

Lambs that are docked are much more attractive to buyers and command a higher price than do undocked lambs. The docking should be done when the lambs are seven to fifteen days old.

The practice of suddenly taking the sow away from her pigs when the pigs are eight to ten weeks old without previous preparation for weaning is as out-of-date as raising hogs on a "corn-and-water ration."

DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES FINANCIAL STATISTICS

Financial Statistics of the State Government of Mississippi for 1927

Washington, D. C., July 30.—The Department of Commerce announces a summary of the financial statistics of the State of Mississippi for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1927. The per capita figures for 1927 are based on a population of 1,790,618, as of the Federal Census of Jan. 1, 1920.

The payments for operation and maintenance of the general departments of Mississippi amounted to $12,233,817, or $6.83 per capita. This includes $3,988,337, appropriations for education to the minor civil divisions of the State. In 1926 the comparative per capita for operation and maintenance of general departments was $6.71, and in 1917, $2.54. The interest on debt in 1927 amounted to $790,168; and outlays for permanent improvements, $5,557,599. The total payments, therefore, for operation and maintenance of general departments, interest, and outlays were $18,581,584. Of this amount $700 represents payments by a State department or enterprise to another on account of services. The totals include all payments for the year, whether made from current revenues or from the proceeds of bond issues.

Of the governmental costs reported above, $5,687,927 was for highways, $1,692,015 being for maintenance and $3,945,912 for construction.

The total revenue receipts were $16,394,641, or $9.16 per capita. This was $3,370,656 more than the total payments of the year, exclusive of the payments for permanent improvements, but $2,186,943 less than the total payments including those for permanent improvements. Those payments were met from the proceeds of debt obligations. Of the total revenue receipts $455 represents receipts from a State department or enterprise on account of services. Property and special taxes represented 40.7 per cent of the total revenue for 1927, 47.6 per cent for 1926, and 52.8 per cent for 1917. The increase in the amount of property and special taxes collected was 193.0 per cent from 1917 to 1926, but there was a decrease of 17.8 per cent from 1926 to 1927. The per capita property and special taxes were $3.73 in 1927, $4.54 in 1926, and $1.55 in 1917.

Earnings of general departments, or compensation for services rendered by State officials, represented 9.4 per cent of the total revenue for 1927, 7.2 per cent for 1926, and 3.6 per cent for 1917. Business and nonbusiness licenses constituted 27.6 per cent of the total revenue for 1927, 22.6 per cent for 1926, and 16.2 per cent for 1917.

Receipts from business licenses consist chiefly of taxes exacted from insurance and other incorporated companies, of privilege taxes, and of sales tax on gasoline, while those from nonbusiness licenses comprise chiefly taxes on motor vehicles. The sales tax on gasoline amounted to $2,146,157 in 1927 and $1,596,760 in 1926, an increase of 34.4 per cent.

The increased percentage of receipts reported for business and nonbusiness licenses was due to the greater amounts received from the sales tax on gasoline and from motor vehicles licenses.

The total funded or fixed debt outstanding Sept. 30, 1927 was $17,203,447. The net indebtedness (funded or fixed debt less sinking fund assets) was $17,142,853, or $9.57 per capita. In 1926 the per capita net debt was $9.25, and in 1917, $3.03.

The assessed valuation of property in Mississippi subject to ad valorem taxation was $724,107,850; the amount of State taxes levied was $4,344,647; and the per capita levy, $2.43. In 1926 the per capita levy was $2.52, and in 1917, $1.29.

MRS. H. B. PEACOCK ANSWERS FINAL SUMMONS

After a protracted illness of five or more years, Mrs. Ada Beck Peacock passed away at her home in south Grenada Sunday night at 8 o'clock surrounded by her devoted husband and four loving children besides other loved ones. Through all the months of her illness, she had borne her suffering with that resignation and fortitude so characteristic of those who have made their peace with God.

Mrs. Peacock was born January 24, 1858, being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Beck, whose home was in the Spring Hill church community eight miles from Grenada. Her mother's maiden name was Steel, being a sister of that well known Methodist divine, Rev. Sam Steel of "Creole Gumbo" fame.

She was married to the husband who survives her, November 13, 1879. To their union four children were born. Providence had been good to the home in hundreds of ways, and her demise makes the first one to pass to the other world out of that home.

The funeral services were conducted from the residence Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. J. H. Holder, her pastor, assisted by Rev. E. S. Lewis, presiding elder, after which her remains were laid to rest in Odd Fellows cemetery.

Mrs. Peacock grew up under the influence of the church. She tried to let her light shine even in her girlhood, and as the years passed, she grew in that interest and knowledge of heavenly things that showed forth an effulgence of that beauty of life which can come only from sources which rule above. She united with the Methodist church in her girlhood.

As a wife she met the most sublime standards. She was gentle, kind, indulgent as needed to be, resolute for correct living, sympathetic, confiding and faithful. As a mother she realized that she could not properly instruct and train those whose rearing God had entrusted to her without constantly communing with the source of all good.

She led a simple life. She found more pleasure and soul comfort in keeping her home and in giving tender care and attention to her children than she did in giving her time to things on the outside. Yet she was a willing visitor at the bedside of the sick, and never neglected those neighborly duties that are so much a part of the life of every good woman.

Besides her husband and four children, all of whom are grown, Mrs. Peacock is survived by one brother, and one sister, A. W. and Miss Emma Beck. To the bereft The Sentinel tenders sincere sympathy.

Miss Edrie Fite of the Gore Springs community won in the health contest for North Mississippi and will represent this district in the health contest at the Memphis fair.

Montgomery County won in garden contest which was the scoring of fresh vegetables.

Marshall County won in dairy work which was churning and scoring butter.

Polk County won in correct dress contest. Each of these contests were scored closely and there were contestants from all parts of the state.

JEFF BUSBY
Candidate for Re-election to Congress

"PERRY HOWARD WOULD REJOICE TO SEE JEFF BUSBY DEFEATED"

Dear Friends:
A few days ago I was talking with a friend about the recent developments on the patronage situation in Mississippi. I had just returned from Biloxi, after spending three days there, where a Federal grand jury had indicted Perry Howard, negro Republican boss, and seven of his gang under the law which I had worked months to get through Congress. This law, which as everyone knows was due to my untiring efforts, makes it possible to fine these post office sellers when convicted $1,000.00 and send them to the penitentiary for a year.

This friend said: "Perry Howard would rejoice to see Jeff Busby defeated, and you know it." I replied that I was certain of that. He then said: "Perry Howard and his gang will be proud of every voter who casts his vote against you for Congress, for it will indicate to him that the people are not backing you in the fight you have made against him for Mississippi." I replied that I did not know about that; that the people must decide for themselves the reasons, and how they should vote.

I have done the best I could to serve our people and State the short time I have been in Congress.

Senator George said (Cong. Record Dec. 27, 1882) in his argument favoring a law similar to the one I got passed:

"It was the habit into which politicians had fallen in those evil days of using money in elections; the habit of inquiring when a nomination was to be made for this office or that office, 'how much money will the nominee and his friends contribute to the election?' That is the great evil against which legislation ought to be enacted."

Senator Lamar, Senator Money, Senator Williams. Senator Vardaman, all of whom served many years in the House and Senate and brought great honor and great service to Mississippi, and other distinguished men who served, deplored the "patronage abuses." The time seemed not to have been ripe to enact a law to break it up, for until December 11, 1926, no law had ever been enacted to prevent persons from making sale of post offices, etc., even at public auction to the highest bidder in the open if the buyer was eligible for appointment. Mr. Graham, chairman of the House Committee on the Judiciary, which reported this bill said: "Representative Busby of Mississippi has been the moving spirit in securing the enactment of this legislation."

Mr. W. D. Jamieson, a former Congressman, publisher of the WINDOW SEAT, Washington, D. C., commenting on the clean-up work in Mississippi, in his issue, July 25, 1928, said:

"That one man who took hold was Congressman Jeff Busby, of Houston, in the Fourth District. The District and the State ought to be proud of him. He came over to see me, secured facts, and started right in for an investigation. She powers were all arrayed against him. Little or no help was given him. That made no difference. He plowed right on through. I remember the last day of the session, almost the last hour, fighting like grim death and watching like a hawk he forced through the very bill at almost the last minute which made the present clean-up possible. That good state owes him an everlasting debt of gratitude." (Mr. Jamieson was on the floor of the House when the bill was finished. He came over and shook hands with, congratulated me, and said "That is the greatest piece of legislation for the SOUTH enacted in a generation.")

My friends, I have worked hard and have been a diligent student of our governmental affairs during the short time I have been in Congress. Not for a day have I been absent when the House was transacting business. Promptness, devotion to service and efficiency have been my aim, and they are all I have to recommend me to you. My five years hard study, the information about the government departments (Post Office Department, Veterans Bureau, Pension, Treasury, etc.) with personal friends and acquaintances in them give me an advantage in serving you I did not have when elected.

I have never said an unkind or untrue thing about anyone in this campaign. I will not do so. I have never injected personalities into any campaign. I cannot help what is published about me in paid "political advertisements" or what others say in conversation about me. Even if they say "Busby said so and so," please pay no attention to these persons, for you may not know them well. You do know me and I feel that every person who has dealt with me in any way has found me true, square and dependable. If you cannot feel satisfied about something you have "heard or read" about me where you think I have done a wrong to some person, please telephone or write me. This is all I know to suggest.

I am placing this little statement in the papers, because the people have been busy with their crops, and while I have been all over the District I have been unable to see many of you.

I hope that my service to you during the brief time I have been in Congress has met with your approval, and that I may be backed by you and your vote on August 21st, with your moral support to clean up Mississippi patronage conditions and land Perry Howard and his gang of grafters in jail where I feel they belong.

Your friend,

JEFF BUSBY

He is well preserved and his many friends indulge the hope that he may live to see a goodly number more birthdays.

Mr. Lawrence will return probably today (Friday) while Mrs. Lawrence and son will likely remain for ten days or two weeks longer.

Lawrence accompanied them home but returned the same afternoon.

in which somebody was seeking to make much of the big appropriations by the legislature evidently endeavoring thereby to create the impression that Gov. Bilbo's administration thus far showed up badly with that of his immediate predecessors in this respect. The truth is the preceding administration spent all it dared to spend. And it is also true that some of the appropriations made by this legislature were made to take care of "left overs" from the preceding regime.

I would say to the people back at home, you had best "get busy" with your legislators or legislators in your county and impress upon them what you think about taxes. Talk over the road proposition, too. My idea is that there is going to be some definite road legislation enacted when the legislature meets, so the people at home should be thinking about road matters and give their aid to working out a road bill. It seems to be generally agreed that the Whittington road bill will never see daylight again unless it is almost emasculated, or the provision changed that will not place the power in the hands of one man. Another thing that I gather as to road matters and that is that no bill will be acceptable that does not provide that the highway commissioners be elected by the people.

ONLOOKER.

is generally agreed that there has been a marked improvement in the cotton crop prospects during the past thirty days. The plant was late. Owing to the rains and the continued cool weather, planting was exceedingly late. The rains continued through June, and thus the working of the crop was much retarded. There was what would ordinarily appear to be too much rain in July. However, the rains served to make the plant catch up somewhat in size and perhaps to hurry fruitage. On the other hand the rains and the many cool nights in July were just what the boll weevil needs to multiply and to feast on the cotton. Yet the weevil has not appeared in such great numbers thus far as in some years in the past. Regardless of what may be the crop prospects, today, the final outcome depends upon what happens in the way of boll weevil work and the weather during the next 30 days. It is a safe prediction at this time, based upon what the crop promises now, to state that there will be as much, and maybe a little more, cotton produced in Grenada County than there was in 1927.

Old corn is made. There is much young corn, far more than for the average year and for the very reason that has already been given for the backwardness of the cotton crop. August weather will determine the fate of late corn. But with the cotton crop of last year and with the development in dairying and the greatly increased sale of milk and butter fat, which brings the weekly pay checks, it may be asserted with every show of truth that Grenada County is ahead of what it was a year ago, and that the merchants of Grenada at least have good grounds to count on a better business than they had last winter.

YOUNG MEN'S BUSINESS LEAGUE MET TUESDAY

ed upon and was denominated, and very properly, by the president "the daddy" of the organization. It is a fact well known to those who were the primary movers for the organization that the league came after several conferences held by some few of the young men of Grenada with Mr. Thomas, and at his instance, Mr. Thomas evidently thought the older heads had failed at some vital points in the business progress of Grenada, and that something was needed to be done and that fresh blood only could accomplish what was needed. He evidently further realized that if the organization was a mixture of older men and younger men that the latter class would take a back seat out of difference to the older ones and that as one of the results of such deference there would be another flash in the plan.

Mr. Thomas' talk clearly demonstrated that The Sentinel has fairly forecasted his ideas. He expressed great delight at the crowd assembled and thought that the meeting gave the most reassuring evidence of the future business welfare of Grenada and of Grenada County. He talked both in a fatherly way and as a business man. He referred to some immediate instances of Grenada's failures; he outlined what was within its grasp if the right steps were taken and he said that his faith in the young men of the business league made him feel in his heart of hearts that other dumping place out of sight.

He suggested several things that he thought the league ought to attempt and right at once, and among these was that a conference be had with the proper city officials looking to the cleaning of certain vacant lots and other unsightly places around the town and among these he specially emphasized that the city should be asked to remove the debris which has been dumped just this side of the Yalobusha river bridge for years, and to find another dumping place out of sight for this material. He said that this spot showed up badly for the town to the visitor. He called attention to the work the farm development association and asked that the league give that organization all possible help and encouragement for the reason in the first place that the farmer deserved every aid possible and for the further reason that the town could not prosper without the farmers were prospering. He told of some recent conferences with some of the leading business men of the country and of the real desire of some factories to come to Grenada. He told how these factories could be obtained, and without the donation of a single dollar.

Other talks were made by O. F. Lawrence, an invited guest, by Roland Jones, L. J. Doak, Dr. Avert, J. B. Keeton and the president. It was manifest that the members had about determined that meetings be had only once a month and Mr. Thomas urged that no dues be collected, and again very generously insisted that he would see that not only the cost of the first dinner is paid but the one for that evening.

Of course the organization has not got up speed yet. It is trying to get its bearings. Its sails are ready to be set, and members are counseling together as to what part they shall make.

hearts. Along with these is the class that just wants to break every law and who seems to be never better pleased than when they are at cross purposes with good society, the officers and the courts. It is the class who just wants their bellies full of some sort of intoxicants that makes it difficult for the man who honestly believes that something besides besides what the country has in prohibition to get the ears of the thinking men and women.

Democrats Puzzle Over Hoover
The Democrats have been unable to put the political tape line to Hoover. They concede that he is honest and that by education and by travel he is well qualified for the great office of President. They are fully aware of the great confidence President Wilson reposed in him.

They recognize in Hoover a world character, and it is generally conceded that if he is elected President, he will organize every department and spread the blanket of commissions throughout the land. Nobody can point to anything in Herbert Hoover that is out of harmony with the best in the social and the political life of the land.

What Democrats Say Hoover Will Lose

The Democrats are saying that Hoover will lose a number of the normally western states because of his opposition to legislation in behalf of the farmers which has been before the last two congresses and which President Coolidge twice vetoed. They are saying that there are thousands of Republicans in the west who will never vote for Hoover because they have it in their heads that Hoover forced them to sell wheat for $2.20 per bushel during the war while the warring allies in Europe were getting an average price of $3.27.

new day for the South.

Those Men Who Helped Most

Mississippi was not wanting in workers in congress to bring about this result. You had many private citizens to come to Washington and remain here for weeks while congress had the matter under consideration, but the advice of none was received with greater consideration by congress than that of Hon. Al Stone, Hon. O. F. Bledsoe and Ex-Senator LeRoy Percy. Your neighbor, Congressman Whittington, seemed to have mastered the subject as the delta sees it and he and Senator Hubert Stephens were powerful factors in getting congress to do what was done.

So the South has reason to assure itself that while there is much politics at Washington, there are many able men and patriots serving the whole country, and the Flood Control Law is but an example of this.
